The Eurasian Peoples' Assembly continues to confidently take shape as an international platform that affirms the ideology of benevolent good neighborliness of different countries and peoples.

At the end of the reporting period members of the Eurasian Peoples' Assembly are 851 individuals and 72 legal entities, representatives of non-governmental organizations from 46 countries. In 2022, 83 new members joined the Assembly.

In the period between the General Assemblies, the General Council is the collegial executive body of the Assembly, which implements the tasks set. The General Council of the Assembly includes well-known public figures from 33 countries of Greater Eurasia: Austria, Azerbaijan, Armenia, Benin, Bulgaria, Bosnia and Herzegovina, Vietnam, Germany, Georgia, Denmark, Egypt, Iran, Spain, Italy, Kazakhstan, Cameroon, China, Kyrgyzstan, Lithuania, Macedonia, Moldova, Palestine, Russia, Serbia, Slovenia, Tajikistan, Turkmenistan, Turkey, Finland, France, Montenegro, Czech Republic, Switzerland.

Having celebrated its first anniversary in the reporting year, the Eurasian Peoples' Assembly has undoubtedly moved to a new qualitative level: in 5 years it has become a well-known international communication platform for interaction between civil society institutions and authorities.

This balanced line finds active support not only in the circles of the international community, but also in the authorities of different countries. At a time when many values that were provided by state international treaties are collapsing, people's diplomacy, the content of this concept, takes on a new meaning.

Among the priority areas of public diplomacy used by the Assembly in the reporting period are:

- scientific and educational cooperation, projects in the sphere of education and science;
- cultural and humanitarian cooperation, projects dedicated to common history, spiritual and moral values, humanitarian security, cultural exchanges, promotion of the Russian language and diplomacy of happiness;
- economic cooperation, partnership based on trust and striving for economic integration;
- youth, children's and sports cooperation.

At the site of the Eurasian Peoples' Assembly, specialized international councils are actively operating. Their sphere of attention also includes issues of scientific, economic, cultural cooperation, tasks in the field of education and sports.

In its practical activities, the Eurasian Peoples' Assembly widely supports international projects of various kinds, including the implementation of the mega-projects EURASIA KIDS, "IMMORTAL MEMORY", "THERE IS HAPPINESS".

First of all, it is a peaceful life. This is the upbringing and happy future of all children, these are scientific and educational projects that advance humanity along the evolutionary path. ## XI. IN LIEU OF CONFINEMENT

An important area of the Assembly activity should be the further development of interaction and cooperation of international non-governmental organizations in the conditions of the formation of a multipolar world and the unification of civil society organizations in different countries representing the interests of their peoples.

The legal form of the organization is the International Union of Non-Governmental Organizations. The very name contains a vector: the unification of the international community.

At the same time, while developing the activities of the Eurasian Peoples' Assembly, as before, it is necessary to remember and emphasize the humanitarian component of Eurasian integration - respect for the common history, spiritual and moral values, mutual enrichment of cultures of different peoples, the desire for joint development, cordial human relations.

The previous five-year period has confirmed the need for closer interaction with the Assembly's partners in a variety of areas.

An important task of the Assembly is to further intensify work on the Eurasian agenda together with major international integration organizations such as the UN, SCO, EAEU, SG, BRICS and others. It is necessary to further expand the formats and types of unifying platforms in the context of public diplomacy.

At the same time, it is important not only to improve the existing instruments of international public cooperation, but also to promote the emergence of new formats. People's diplomacy can capture new trends to unite people's forces around the world, promote the advantages of having reliable partners, new areas of activity, additional communication channels, be flexible, actively expand diplomatic relations, and strengthen multilateral cooperation at the international level.

This constructive partnership is fully consistent with the goals and objectives of the Eurasian Peoples' Assembly as the International Union of non-governmental organizations and citizens with an active life position, sharing and promoting the ideas and values of Eurasian integration, protection of peace, strengthening friendship, partnership and good neighborliness among peoples.
